

Diary of an Historic Village

Addyston, Ohio 1891-1991

By Peg and Ray Sisson

Before the 1991 Addyston Centennial celebration, the Council of the Village of Addyston and the Addyston Centennial Commission, commissioned Peg and ray Sisson to assemble their vast knowledge of Addyston's history into a collection. From firsthand knowledge, tedious research and a deep felt passion for the challenge two giant historical works surfaced. The first being 'Addy's Town Courier', a collection of historical facts and local current events. This periodical was a collection of articles about things old and new, written by an assortment of community members.

The second work, 'Diary of an Historic Village, Addyston, Ohio 1891-1991', is the most comprehensive collection of historical data from the Village of Addyston available anywhere. With its concise chronology, narratives, sketches (most done by Peg Sisson) and pictures from the past, the book takes Addystonians young and old on an adventure into our past that draws you deep into it. Those who do not live here will find an intriguing look into the Diary of an Historic Village.

Both Ray and Peg remain with us. Ray is 96 years old. He has written several books and has many more accomplishment to his credit. We continue to thank them for this great work.

We would also like to thank Constance (Connie Hopkins) Washington a former Addystonian who searched and found that the book is still available, she has bought and distributed several volumes. Lots people have been requesting reprints.

Village Council is ordering several copies as well. We will have them on hand for anyone that would like to purchase one. We believe the price will be about $20.00 each. If you would like to have one please call 513-941-1313 and Erin will take your order.
